Foreword

GB/T 48300-2026 is a recommended national standard (GB/T) of the People's Republic of China, issued on 28 September 2026 by the State Administration for Market Regulation and the Standardization Administration of China, with effect from 1 April 2027.

It is under the responsibility of the China Commerce Federation.

Classification: ICS 03.100.01; CCS A10.

1 Scope

Group meals, meaning catering served to many diners at once in settings such as workplaces, schools and institutions, are the subject of this operation management specification. The standard speaks to catering companies, canteen operators, the organizations that contract them, and consultants or auditors who review how a food service business is run. Its purpose is to give the sector a common reference for managing day to day operations in a consistent way.

The document is a recommended national standard, which means adoption is voluntary unless a contract or local rule makes it binding. It was issued on 28 September 2026 and is due to take effect on 1 April 2027. No earlier edition is identified in the available record, so readers comparing it with older practice should rely on the text itself. Buyers working with Chinese catering partners can use it as a benchmark when setting expectations for service management.
