What this standard covers

This standard specifies the terms and definitions of non-uniform optical power splitters based on planar optical waveguide technology, specifies the technical requirements for the optical performance, transmission performance, packaging structure, flame retardant performance, appearance structure, etc. of non-uniform splitters, describes the corresponding test methods, specifies the inspection rules, and marks, packaging, transportation and storage, etc. This standard applies to the design, development, production and inspection of non-uniform splitter devices and components coupled with single-mode optical fibers.
