

ICS 33.030
CCS M 21

YDN

INDUSTRY STANDARD OF THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA

YDN 126-2009

Replacing YDN 126-2007

Baseline requirements for network and information security of value-added telecommunication services

增值电信业务网络信息安全保障基本要求

(English Translation)

Issued on: December 11, 2009

Implemented on: January 1, 2010

Issued by: Ministry of Industry and Information Technology

Table of Contents

What this standard covers	1
Document data	2
Standards quoted by this document	3

What this standard covers

This standard specifies the value-added telecom services network and information security safeguards basic requirements, including information resources security requirements, hardware equipment and environmental safety requirements, network security requirements, platform system software safety requirements, business application system security requirements and so on. The technical requirements in safety technology safeguards requirements refer to various devices, systems to have security features should be reflected through the functional specification of equipment and systems. The technical requirements applicable to the construction of China's value-added telecommunications business network information security system is the value-added telecommunications service providers to build their own network information security framework, important basis for value-added telecom services operators regulators to check the implementation of security measures. The technical requirements of network and information security safeguards are basic requirements. Enterprises may need to develop not included in the technical requirements of other security measures according to the characteristics of the enterprise business.

Document data

International classification (ICS): 33.030.

Chinese classification (CCS): M21.

Estimated length of the Chinese original: 32,397 words.

Supersedes the earlier edition YDN 126-2007.

Standards quoted by this document

YD/T 1132-2001; YD/T 1311-2004